DESIGNER'S NOTE

In collaboration with BGC Home, local design duo Eskay Design, has brought their wealth of knowledge and passion for design together to bring you our 2023 Design Trends.

Introducing three key design trends that are forecast to make an entrance into our homes this year. Warm tones and organic forms remain key as our desire to feel more connected to the natural world continues. We hope that this inspires your creativity.

“

Moving ahead, design should be about embracing our environment. How can we be more sustainable, yet still make our interiors look beautiful?

PANTONE COLOUR OF THE YEAR

Pantone's Colour of the Year for 2023, Viva Magenta, is a bold and vibrant hue that is sure to make a statement in any home. Whether incorporated through accent pieces like occasional chairs or used as a feature wall, this colour brings a sense of warmth and organic energy to any space.

Its roots in nature make it the perfect choice for those looking to embrace the latest design trends while still feeling connected to the natural world. So why not add a splash of Viva Magenta to your home and let it bring some excitement and energy to your space?

NATURAL WARMTH

People are looking for ways to create a sense of warmth and comfort in their homes, which has led to a shift away from cooler, neutral tones towards warmer, bolder colours. Natural materials and earthy tones are also becoming more popular, as people seek a sense of connection to the outdoors.

In addition to this trend towards warmth and natural materials, there is also a desire for contrast and juxtaposition in home design. Mixing straight lines with soft curves, for example, can create a sense of balance and harmony. And combining different materials, such as wood and metal, can add depth and interest to a space.

SUSTAINABLE LIVING

As awareness of environmental issues continues to grow, it is becoming increasingly important to consider sustainability in all aspects of home design and construction. By making informed choices about materials, energy use, and water conservation, we can help to reduce our impact on the environment and build homes that are more sustainable and eco-friendly.

One of the best ways to harness sustainable style is by choosing locally made homewares that will last. Research the sustainability values of brands you support and make considered purchases.
